This week:

During this period of great uncertainty and fear, it is so important that we act to support each other. As Greta Thunberg has said, "...young people are the least affected by this virus but it's essential that we act in solidarity with the most vulnerable and that we act in the best interest of our common society." Listening to the Prime Minister's press conference yesterday, I was struck by the words of Sir Patrick Vallance and Professor Chris Whitty to the effect that times of crisis often bring out the best in people – that you can see 'extraordinary outbreaks of altruism'.

Thank you to those who have expressed their appreciation for the measures that we have taken so far. It has also been lovely to receive supportive enquiries about my own wellbeing and stress-levels! The rolling-start and end to the day has given me a great opportunity to properly catch up with families – we have to find the positives where we can and I can already feel the sense of 'Blitz Spirit' on the playground. Let's carry on looking after each other, looking out for those who are vulnerable or in need, and praying for all affected.

God bless,

Ms Kane
